TITLE: Staff Report for a 1) Presentation to and Comments from the City Council on the Rescue Vehicle Policy and 2) Review and Approval of a Resolution Authorizing the City Manager to Accept Grant Funds in the Amount of $200,000, Appropriate $50,000 from Asset Forfeiture Funds, and Execute a Reimbursement Agreement between the City of San Leandro and the City of Fremont to Purchase the MedEvac Armored Rescue Vehicle

SUMMARY AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Staff recommends:

1. The purchase of a LENCO MedEvac armored rescue vehicle and associated equipment; and
2. That the City Council accept a grant in the amount of $200,000 from the State Homeland Security Agency;
3. That the City Council authorize the appropriation and use of up to $50,000 of asset forfeiture funds; and
4. That the City Council authorize the City Manager to negotiate and execute a reimbursement agreement between the City of San Leandro and the City of Fremont for a $50,000 financial contribution towards the MedEvac armored rescue vehicle purchase.

BACKGROUND

The San Leandro Police Department has a public safety need for a contemporary armored MedEvac vehicle to provide a rescue resource for officers in managing critical incidents where there is an objective risk to officers or public safety. The rescue vehicle policy directs how the vehicle may be used including the deploying procedures and that its deployment requires supervisory approval.

The vehicle will allow the police department to:

- Safely assist and rescue community members who are under duress, including active shooter, barricaded subjects, and hostage situations.
- Provide adequate protection to police, fire and medical staff during a rescue from an incident involving an armed person(s).
- Safely transport and deploy public safety and emergency medical response personnel to situations where public safety is jeopardized.
- Provide mutual aid to other public safety agencies such as the Alameda County Fire Department, Paramedics Plus and neighboring public agencies.

Acquiring a MedEvac vehicle will enhance the Police Department's preparation for many different types of hazardous or critical incidents, which the FBI outlines in its 2014 report- "A study of Active Shooter Incidents in the US between 2000-2013".

<http://www.fbi.gov/news/stories/2014/september/fbi-releases-study-on-active-shooter-incidents/pdfs/a-study-of-active-shooter-incidents-in-the-u.s.-between-2000-and-2013>. According to the FBI study, there have been a total of 160 incidents of this type between the years 2000-2013 in cities across the nation. In these incidents, 486 lives were lost and 557 people were injured. FBI Special Agent Katherine Schweit - who heads the FBI's Active Shooter Initiative -- stresses that it is important first responders be trained and prepared in such incidents to minimize lives lost.

The LENCO MedEvac vehicle is built on a Ford F-550 chassis weighing approximately 17,000 lbs. It has 0.5 inch thick steel armored bodywork built to withstand 7.62 AP (Armor-Piercing)/.50 Cal BMG (Browning Machine Gun). On board, it is equipped with oxygen tanks, lighted work stations and compartments for medical supplies and other equipment.

Currently the San Leandro Police Department does not have this type of equipment to safely conduct rescues. The Department borrowed similar vehicles from neighboring agencies when the need arose. The availability of this type of protective equipment varies due to the needs of other agencies and time of day. Having a Department dedicated rescue vehicle, which will be stored at the San Leandro Police Department, will decrease response time to critical incidents, rather than relying on neighboring agencies. This is important during critical incidents, such as an active shooter incident, where every second counts.

Alameda County and other Bay Area police departments have armored vehicles that are primarily used and designed for transporting personnel and providing a protected platform from which to work. The LENCO MedEvac vehicle is designed and equipped to facilitate rescues with emergency medical personnel. It can also be used as a protective platform for staff during critical incidents such as those involving barricaded armed subjects. The closest MedEvac vehicle is located in Southern California, and San Leandro's purchase of this vehicle will provide a regional asset to the Bay Area.

The Police Department has obtained confirmed specifications and pricing for a new armored vehicle (MedEvac) from LENCO Company, of Pittsfield, Massachusetts in the amount of approximately $284,110.00. Additional outfitting costs for radios and other equipment will range from $10,000- $15,890.

Staff is recommending a sole source purchase. The purchase and pricing is in association with the U.S. General Services Administration (GSA) pricing agreement because the LENCO MedEvac is the only tactical and rescue vehicle available that is capable of enduring .50 caliber weapon fire, providing running boards to support tactical positioning of personnel for insertion and extraction purposes, supporting the movement of 10-12 personnel in the vehicle interior, providing for a fully armored hood to protect the engine components from weapon fire, and providing for a non-commercial vehicle body of mil-spec steel that does not degrade after taking on weapon fire to provide for repeated use.

LENCO is the Sole Manufacturer for the LENCO MedEvac Rescue Vehicle, and is the only manufacturer, distributor, and authorized dealer/supplier of this product.

Analysis

The proposed MedEvac rescue vehicle will be manufactured specifically to enable First Responders to conduct rescue operations and to treat injured persons. It will also provide a secure platform for staff to handle certain critical incidents such as barricaded armed subjects or mentally ill subjects armed with a weapon. There are countless examples of public safety agencies around the nation using similar vehicles to rescue parties and to de-escalate volatile situations without having to use lethal force. Attached to this report is a detailed Fact Sheet that lists incidents in which an armored vehicle was used by the San Leandro Police Department and borrowed from another agency.

Fiscal Impact

The following is a breakdown on proposed funding:

State Homeland Security Grant	$200,000
SLPD Asset Forfeiture #146-21-017	$50,000*
City of Fremont	$50,000*
Total	$300,000

* The projected use of $50,000 of Asset Forfeiture funds is contingent on the negotiation of a $50,000 financial contribution from the City of Fremont.

REGIONAL MEDEVAC

FACT SHEET

FACTS

- Funded by a grant from the State Homeland Security in the amount of $200,000.
- The remaining cost, estimated at $100,000, will be divided among grant partners: Alameda County Fire, Fremont Police/Fire and San Leandro Police. We are seeking additional grant funding to cover this cost.
- San Leandro's share would be funded through Asset Forfeiture. The cost is estimated at $33,333.
- The MedEvac Rescue Vehicle would be a countywide asset available to agencies throughout the Region; this is a requirement of the grant.
- If acquired, this will be the only MedEvac in Northern California.

COMMON QUESTIONS

1. Why does the City of San Leandro need a MedEvac Rescue Vehicle?

This vehicle has dual purposes and there are none in Northern California. It's specially designed to safely transport and protect emergency medical personnel and their equipment into high threat environments.

It is also designed to protect the community and first responders when confronted with violent and/or armed individuals. At the present time, we borrow this equipment from neighboring agencies when potentially violent situations arise. It is essential that this vehicle be available immediately to ensure the safety of the City.

2. Why can't the San Leandro Police Department continue borrowing this type of equipment from neighboring agencies?

Neighboring agencies do not have a MedEvac vehicle. Other armored vehicles may not have the equipment readily available and transporting the vehicle may take time. Time is of the essence during critical incidents and seconds count. Violent incidents (e.g. active shooters, acts of terrorism, etc.) transpire rapidly and having a rescue vehicle available immediately is vital to safely transport and protect emergency medical personnel.

3. Where will the vehicle be stored?

It will be stored at the San Leandro Police Department in a gated and secured area.

4. Is purchasing this vehicle another step towards militarizing our police department?

This MedEvac is a rescue vehicle built for urban environments. The purpose of this equipment is to provide a safe platform for First Responders to administer first aid to injured parties. The MedEvac rescue vehicle is simply a Ford F-550 truck with a protective shell to provide safety for emergency medical responders so they can provide immediate aid to injured parties.

5. Will this vehicle be used for peaceful protests and/or crowd control situations?

The San Leandro Police Department's policy prohibits the use of this vehicle for peaceful protests. The vehicle may be utilized during violent crowd control situations since the vehicle is intended to safely transport and protect emergency medical personnel during incidents involving potential threats of violence.

Introduction

In 2013, the president signed into law the Investigative Assistance for Violent Crimes Act of 2012, which granted the attorney general the authority to assist in the investigation of “violent acts and shootings occurring in a place of public use” and in the investigation of “mass killings and attempted mass killings at the request of an appropriate law enforcement official of a state or political subdivision.”¹

To provide further clarity on these threats, the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) in 2014 initiated a study of “active shooter” incidents². The goal of the FBI study is to provide federal, state, and local law enforcement with data so they can better understand how to prevent, prepare for, respond to, and recover from these incidents.

Active shooter is a term used by law enforcement to describe a situation in which a shooting is in progress and an aspect of the crime may affect the protocols used in responding to and reacting at the scene of the incident. Unlike a defined crime, such as a murder or mass killing, the active aspect inherently implies that both law enforcement personnel and citizens have the potential to affect the outcome of the event based upon their responses.

² The FBI's Uniform Crime Reporting system does not capture data specific to active shooters but rather is data derived from more than 18,000 city, university/college, country, state, tribal, and federal law enforcement agencies that voluntarily report monthly on criminal activity in their jurisdictions.

Unclassified

The agreed-upon definition of an active shooter by U.S. government agencies—including the White House, U.S. Department of Justice/FBI, U.S. Department of Education, and U.S. Department of Homeland Security/Federal Emergency Management Agency—is “an individual actively engaged in killing or attempting to kill people in a confined and populated area.”³ Implicit in this definition is that the subject’s criminal actions involve the use of firearms.⁴

For purposes of its study, the FBI extended this definition to include individuals, because some incidents involved two or more shooters. Though the federal definition includes the word “confined,” the FBI excluded this word in its study, as the term confined could omit incidents that occurred outside a building.

Whether inside or out, these incidents still posed a threat to both law enforcement and the citizens they seek to protect.⁵

This is not a study of mass killings or mass shootings, but rather a study of a specific type of shooting situation law enforcement and the public may face. Incidents identified in this study do not encompass all gun-related situations; therefore caution should be taken when using this information without placing it in context. Specifically, shootings that resulted from gang or drug violence—pervasive, long-tracked, criminal acts that could also affect the public—were not included in this study. In addition, other gun-related shootings were not included when those incidents appeared generally not to have put others in peril (e.g., the accidental discharge of a firearm in a school building or a person who chose to publicly commit suicide in a parking lot). The study does not encompass all mass killings or shootings in public places and therefore is limited in its scope.⁶ Nonetheless, it was undertaken to provide clarity and data of value to both law enforcement and citizens as they seek to stop these threats and save lives during active shooter incidents.⁷

As a result, the FBI identified 160 active shooter incidents that occurred in the United States between 2000 and 2013.⁸ Though additional active shooter incidents may have occurred during this time period, the FBI is confident this research captured the vast majority of incidents falling within the search criteria. To gather information for this study, researchers relied on official police records (where available), FBI records, and open sources.⁹ The time span researched was intended to provide substantive results to aid in preparedness and response efforts. This study is not intended to explore all facets of active shooter incidents, but rather is intended to provide a baseline to guide federal, state, tribal, and campus law enforcement along with other first responders, corporations, educators, and the general public to a better understanding of active shooter incidents.

6 Other private and public entities have studied mass casualty incidents, murder rates, and school or workplace violence. (e.g., Campus Attacks: Targeted Violence Affecting Institutions of Higher Education, a joint publication of U.S. Secret Service, U.S. Department of Education, and Federal Bureau of Investigation, 2010, http://hems.ed.gov/docs/CampusAttacks_201004.pdf).

7 Limited details on the shooters are included in this study. In 2015, the FBI Behavioral Threat Assessment Center will research shooter pre-attack behavioral indicators with a focus on findings that will enhance prevention methods.

8 See Appendix A for a summary of incidents examined in this study.

9 Researchers relied on 104 police department records, after action reports, shooting commission reports, open sources, and FBI resources.

Snapshot

The following characteristics of the 160 active shooter incidents identified between 2000 and 2013 are noted:

INCIDENTS

- An average of 11.4 incidents occurred annually.
- An average of 6.4 incidents occurred in the first 7 years studied, and an average of 16.4 occurred in the last 7 years.
- 70.0% of the incidents occurred in either a commerce/business or educational environment.¹⁰
- Shootings occurred in 40 of 50 states and the District of Columbia.
- 60.0% of the incidents ended before police arrived.

*A handful of those identified as "wounded" were not injured by gunfire but rather suffered injuries incidental to the event, such as being hit by flying objects/shattered glass or falling while running. This does not account for all those wounded in this fashion or any mental or emotional trauma that resulted in potential medical treatment.

¹⁰ All percentages are rounded to the nearest tenth

CASUALTIES

- Casualties (victims killed and wounded) totaled 1,043. The individual shooters are not included in this total.
- A total of 486 individuals were killed.
- A total of 557 individuals were wounded.¹¹
- In 64 incidents (40.0%), the crime would have fallen within the federal definition of “mass killing”—defined as “three or more” killed—under the new federal statute.

INCIDENTS WITH THE HIGHEST CASUALTY COUNTS:

- Cinemark Century 16 Theater in Aurora, Colorado:
70 (12 killed, 58 wounded), July 20, 2012.
- Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in Blacksburg, Virginia:
49 (32 killed, 17 wounded), April 16, 2007.¹²
- Ft. Hood Soldier Readiness Processing Center in Ft. Hood, Texas:
45 (13 killed, 32 wounded), November 5, 2009.
- Sandy Hook Elementary School and a residence in Newtown, Connecticut:
29 (27 killed, 2 wounded), December 14, 2012.

SHOOTERS

- All but 2 incidents involved a single shooter.¹³
- In at least 9 incidents, the shooter first shot and killed a family member(s) in a residence before moving to a more public location to continue shooting.¹⁴
- In at least 6 incidents, the shooters were female.¹⁵
- In 64 incidents (40.0%), the shooters committed suicide; 54 shooters did so at the scene of the crime.
- At least 5 shooters from 4 incidents remain at large.¹⁶

¹¹ A handful of those counted as wounded were not injured by gunfire but rather suffered injuries incidental to the event, such as being hit by flying objects/shattered glass, or falling while running. These were included in the casualty count when research may not have easily allowed for the type of injury to be discerned. This does not account for all those wounded in this fashion, to include those suffering any mental or emotional trauma that resulted in potential medical treatment.

¹² Six additional students were injured after they climbed out of a second floor window in Norris Hall but are not included in the study's tally of those wounded because they could be easily discerned from those wounded by the shooter.

Findings

In this study, the FBI identified 160 active shooter incidents, noting they occurred in small and large towns, in urban and rural areas, and in 40 of 50 states and the District of Columbia. Though incidents occurred primarily in commerce and educational environments (70.0%), they also occurred on city streets, on military and other government properties, and in private residences, health care facilities, and houses of worship. The shooters victimized young and old, male and female, family members, and people of all races, cultures, and religions.

The findings establish an increasing frequency of incidents annually. During the first 7 years included in the study, an average of 6.4 incidents occurred annually. In the last 7 years of the study, that average increased to 16.4 incidents annually. This trend reinforces the need to remain vigilant regarding prevention efforts and for law enforcement to aggressively train to better respond to—and help communities recover from—active shooter incidents.

The findings also reflect the damage that can occur in a matter of minutes. In 64 incidents where the duration of the incident could be ascertained, 44 (69.0%) of 64 incidents ended in 5 minutes or less, with 23 ending in 2 minutes or less. Even when law enforcement was present or able to respond within minutes, civilians often had to make life and death decisions, and, therefore, should be engaged in training and discussions on decisions they may face.¹⁷

A Study of 160 Active Shooter Incidents in the United States Between 2000 - 2013: Incidents Annually

¹⁷ In 6 incidents (and, in addition, at least 4 schools), officers were on the scene when the shooting began.

As expected, therefore, many incidents ended before police arrived.¹⁸ Of the 160 incidents, at least 107 (66.9%) ended before police arrived and could engage the shooter, either because a citizen intervened, the shooter fled, or the shooter committed suicide or was killed by someone at the scene.

Casualties

A total of 1,043 casualties occurred during the incidents included in this study (486 killed, 557 wounded). If a shooter died as a result of the incident, that individual was not included in the casualty totals. In addition, a small number of those identified as wounded were not injured by gunfire but rather suffered injuries incidental to the event, such as being hit by flying objects/shattered glass or falling while running. For the purposes of this study, the FBI did not seek to isolate the exact number of individuals that fell into this category, when research did not allow for that type of injury to be easily discerned.

The median number of individuals killed in each incident was 2, and the median number of individuals wounded in each incident was 2.

The FBI found that 64 incidents (40.0%) would have been categorized as falling within the new federal definition of “mass killing,” which is defined as “three or more killings in a single incident.”¹⁹

A Study of 160 Active Shooter Incidents in the United States Between 2000 - 2013: Broken Down by Casualty Type; Killed or Wounded

At least 25 (15.6%) of the 160 incidents involved shootings at more than one location. Several casualties involved family members or individuals who had a close personal relationship with the shooter. In at least 15 (9.4%) of the 160 incidents, the shooters targeted family members, resulting in the deaths of 20 and the wounding of 1.²⁰ In 9 of these incidents, or about half, the shooters then moved on to another location and continued shooting.

Of note, male shooters also acted violently against women with whom they had or once had a romantic relationship. In 16 (10.0%) of the 160 incidents, the shooters targeted current, estranged, or former wives as well as current or former girlfriends. In 12 incidents, the women were killed;²¹ in 3 incidents, the women sustained significant injuries but survived;²² and in 1 incident, the shooter could not find the woman.²³ While perpetrating this violence, an additional 42 people were killed and another 28 were wounded.

Resolutions

The majority of the 160 incidents (90 [56.3%]) ended on the shooter's initiative—sometimes when the shooter committed suicide or stopped shooting, and other times when the shooter fled the scene.

There were at least 25 incidents where the shooter fled the scene before police arrived. In 4 additional incidents, at least 5 shooters fled the scene and were still at large at the time the study results were released.

In other incidents, it was a combination of actions by citizens and/or law enforcement that ended the shootings. In at least 65 (40.6%) of the 160 incidents, citizen engagement or the shooter committing suicide ended the shooting at the scene before law enforcement arrived.

Of those:

- In 37 incidents (23.1%), the shooter committed suicide at the scene before police arrived.
- In 21 incidents (13.1%), the situation ended after unarmed citizens safely and successfully restrained the shooter. In 2 of those incidents,²⁴ 3 off-duty law enforcement officers were present and assisted.
 - Of note, 11 of the incidents involved unarmed principals, teachers, other school staff and students who confronted shooters to end the threat (9 of those shooters were students).
- In 5 incidents (3.1%), the shooting ended after armed individuals who were not law enforcement personnel exchanged gunfire with the shooters. In these incidents, 3 shooters were killed, 1 was wounded, and 1 committed suicide.
 - The individuals involved in these shootings included a citizen with a valid firearms permit and armed security guards at a church, an airline counter, a federally managed museum, and a school board meeting.²⁵
- In 2 incidents (1.3%), 2 armed, off-duty police officers engaged the shooters, resulting in the death of the shooters. In 1 of those incidents, the off-duty officer assisted a responding officer to end the threat.²⁶

Even when law enforcement arrived quickly, many times the shooter still chose to end his life. In 17 (10.6%) of the 160 incidents, the shooter committed suicide at the scene after law enforcement arrived but before officers could act.

In 45 (28.1%) of the 160 incidents, law enforcement and the shooter exchanged gunfire. Of those 45 incidents, the shooter was killed at the scene in 21, killed at another location in 4, wounded in 9, committed suicide in 9, and surrendered in 2.

In 6 instances
the shooter
was female;
all others
were male.

Law Enforcement/Security Personnel Casualties

Law enforcement suffered casualties in 21 (46.7%) of the 45 incidents where they engaged the shooter to end the threat. This resulted in 9 officers killed (4 of whom were ambushed in a shooting) and 28 wounded.

In 3 (1.9%) of the 160 incidents, armed, non-sworn security personnel were killed.²⁷ In 2 additional incidents, 2 unarmed security officers were killed and 2 were wounded.²⁸

Shooter Outcomes

In all, 64 (40.0%) of the shooters ultimately committed suicide. Most shooters were males acting alone. Only 2 (1.3%) of the 160 incidents had more than 1 shooter and only 6 (3.8%) involved a female shooter. Of note, 2 of the 12 shootings at institutions of higher education (IHEs) were perpetrated by females. At least 5 shooters were at large at the time of the publication of this study.

Results showed 3 shooters carried improvised explosive devices (IEDs); 1 shooter used the device (a Molotov cocktail).²⁹ And, 1 shooter booby-trapped his residence with IEDs.³⁰ At least 6 shooters wore or were carrying body armor.

Locations

The FBI identified 11 separate incident location categories³¹ when seeking to identify the primary locations where the public was most at risk during an incident. These location categories include commercial areas (divided into malls, businesses open to pedestrian traffic, and businesses closed to pedestrian traffic), educational environments (divided into schools [pre-kindergarten through 12th grade] and IHEs), open spaces, government properties (divided into military and other government properties), residences, houses of worship, and health care facilities.

When an incident occurred in two or more locations, the FBI sought to identify where the public was most at risk. For example, in instances where casualties occurred inside a private residence before a shooter moved to a public area, those incidents were categorized at the location where the public was more at risk. In addition, some specialized business locations (i.e., malls and health care facilities) were identified separately to provide added transparency.

In all, 24 (15.0%) of the 160 incidents involved shootings at more than one location. This supports the value in quickly assessing the circumstances where the first shooting occurs and may aid law enforcement's ability to predict other potential targets.

A Study of 160 Active Shooter Incidents in the United States Between 2000 - 2013: Location Categories

Source: Federal Bureau of Investigation, 2014

The study results identified 73 (45.6%) of 160 incidents that occurred in areas of commerce. These included businesses open to pedestrian traffic (44 [27.5%]), businesses closed to pedestrian traffic (23 [14.3%]), and malls (6 [3.8%]). These distinctions were made in order to determine whether the public was more at risk in areas where pedestrian traffic was likely.

Educational environments were identified as the second-largest location grouping (39 [24.4%]). These were further broken down as those occurring in schools (27 [16.9%]), including two school board meetings) and IHEs (12 [7.5%]).

Other incidents, in descending order, were located in:

- Open spaces (15 [9.4%]);
- Government properties (16 [10.0%]);
 - Other (non-military) government properties (11 [6.9%])
 - Military properties (5 [3.1%])
- Residences (7 [4.4%]);
- Houses of worship (6 [3.8%]); and
- Health care facilities (4 [2.5%]).

Breakdown by location:

COMMERCE AREAS

Businesses Open to Pedestrian Traffic

The 44 incidents that occurred in business environments generally open to pedestrian traffic resulted in 124 people killed (including 2 company co-owners in 1 incident) and 181 people wounded (including 1 manager). The most incidents occurred on Tuesdays (10), with others occurring on Fridays (9), Mondays (6), Wednesdays (6), Thursdays (5), Sundays (5), and Saturdays (3).

The majority of the shooters in these incidents were not employed at the location. Specifically:

- 30 shooters (68.2%) were not employed by the businesses, though 7 had a relationship with at least 1 current employee;
- 12 shooters (27.3%), including 1 woman, were employed or previously employed by the businesses (8 current employees [2 possibly facing termination, 1 terminated the day of the shooting] and 4 former employees); and
- 2 or more shooters from 2 incidents fled the scene and remain at large, so their connection to the incident location is unknown.

These incidents ended when:

- 19 shooters committed suicide (11 did so at the scene before police arrived, 3 did so at the scene after police arrived, and 5 shooters fled the scene and committed suicide at another location);
- 9 shooters were apprehended at the scene (1 after being restrained by a citizen);
- 8 shooters fled and were apprehended by law enforcement at another location;
- 4 shooters were killed by law enforcement (2 at the scene);
- 2 shooters fled and were not apprehended;
- 1 shooter was killed by an off-duty law enforcement officer at the scene; and
- 1 shooter was killed at the scene by a citizen with a valid firearms permit.

Businesses Closed to Pedestrian Traffic

The 23 incidents that occurred in business environments generally closed to pedestrian traffic resulted in 69 individuals killed and 73 wounded. In 12 incidents, supervisors/managers and owners of companies were killed (10) or wounded (5). The most incidents occurred on Wednesdays (7), with others occurring on Tuesdays (5), Thursdays (4), Mondays (3), Fridays (2), and a Sunday (1).

These incidents almost exclusively involved employees. In all, 22 of the 23 shooters, including 2 females, were employed or previously employed at the business. The sole shooter not employed by a business had a relationship with a current employee. The 22 shooters who were employees included:

- 14 current employees;
- 4 employees fired the day of the shooting;
- 3 former employees; and
- 1 suspended employee.

of the 160 incidents, occurred in an environment related to commerce.

These incidents ended when:

- 16 shooters committed suicide (13 did so at the scene before police arrived, 1 did so at the scene after police arrived, and 2 shooters fled the scene and committed suicide at another location);
- 3 shooters were apprehended at the scene (2 after being restrained by citizens);
- 3 shooters were killed by police (2 at the scene and 1 elsewhere); and
- 1 shooter fled and was apprehended by police at another location.

Malls

The 6 incidents that occurred in malls resulted in 17 killed and 18 wounded. It appeared the shooters were neither employed by businesses in the affected malls nor had relationships with mall employees. The most incidents occurred on Sundays (2), with others occurring on a Monday (1), a Tuesday (1), and Wednesday (1), and a Thursday (1).

These incidents ended when:

- 3 shooters committed suicide at the scene before law enforcement arrived;
- 2 shooters were apprehended by law enforcement at the scene (1 after being restrained by a citizen); and
- 1 shooter was killed by law enforcement during an exchange of gunfire with responding officers, including an off-duty officer at the mall at the time.

EDUCATION ENVIRONMENTS

The 39 incidents that occurred in educational environments (27 schools, 12 IHEs) resulted in 117 individuals killed and 120 wounded. Note that in this study, schools are defined as pre-kindergarten through 12th grade (PreK-12) educational facilities; incidents that occurred at school-related facilities such as school administration buildings are also included in this category.

Incidents in educational facilities account for some of the higher casualty counts. For example, the highest death tolls among the 160 incidents occurred at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in Blacksburg, Virginia (32 killed, 17 wounded) and Sandy Hook Elementary School in Newtown, Connecticut (26 killed, 2 wounded [1 additional death at a residence]). Other high casualty counts occurred during the shootings at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, Illinois (5 killed, 16 wounded) and Santana High School in Santee, California (2 killed, 13 wounded).

No law enforcement officers were killed or wounded in school incidents, and no officers were killed in incidents at IHEs. One officer was wounded in 1 incident at an IHE, however, it occurred at a medical facility on the campus and not in a campus residence or classroom.

Incidents in educational facilities account for some of the higher casualty counts.

IHEs

The 12 IHE shootings resulted in 60 individuals killed and 60 individuals wounded. The shooters, 2 of whom were female, ranged in age from 18 to 62. The shooters included 5 former students, 4 current students, 2 employees, and 1 patient visiting a medical center. The most incidents occurred on Fridays (5) with others occurring on Mondays (2), Thursdays (2), a Sunday (1), a Tuesday (1), and a Wednesday (1).

These incidents ended when:

- 5 shooters were apprehended by police at the scene (1 after 2 off-duty officers and a citizen restrained him, and 1 after a being restrained by an off-duty mall security officer);
- 4 shooters committed suicide at the scene (3 before police arrived, 1 after);
- 2 shooters were killed by police at the scene; and
- 1 shooter fled the scene and was apprehended by police at another location.

Schools

The 27 school incidents resulted in 57 individuals killed and 60 individuals wounded. In 2 of the incidents, an adult fired on school board members during a board meeting. Of the remaining 25 incidents, 14 occurred in a high school (HS), 6 occurred in a middle school or junior high school (MS), 4 occurred in an elementary school (ES), and 1 occurred at a school including grades PreK-12.

Where shootings occurred inside buildings, 14 (51.9%) took place in school classrooms and hallways (9 HS, 3 MS, 1 ES, 1 PreK-12), 3 in the school cafeteria (2 HS, 1 MS), 2 in school administrative offices, 2 in school board meeting rooms, and 2 in the school when no classes were in session. An additional 4 incidents were initiated outside (1 HS, 2 MS, 1 ES), including 2 where the shooters were in vehicles.

In addition to the many student victims, the casualties included school employees, resulting in at least 14 killed (6 teachers, 5 five principals or assistant principals, and 3 other staff members) and another 16 wounded (9 teachers, 5 administrators, and 2 staff members).

In a majority of HS and MS incidents, the shooter was a student at the school; this was the case in 12 of 14 HS shootings and 5 of 6 MS shootings. Incidents at elementary schools did not involve the actions of a student.

School Board Meetings

The 2 incidents at school board meetings resulted in 1 individual wounded. The shooters were 56- and 58-year-old males. One shooter committed suicide after an exchange of gunfire with the school district's armed security guard, and the other shooter was arrested by police after other school administrators wrestled him to the ground.

of the shooters ultimately committed suicide.

High Schools

The 14 HS incidents resulted in 21 killed (including 5 school employees) and 40 wounded (including 11 school employees). The shooters ages ranged from 14 to 19. All but 2 shooters were current students at the affected school; one was a former student and the other was a high school student at another school. The most incidents occurred on Mondays (5), followed by Wednesdays (4), Thursdays (2), Fridays (2), and a Tuesday (1).

These incidents ended when:

- 10 shooters were apprehended at the scene (2 by responding police officers, 7 after being initially restrained by school employees [including 1 incident where students assisted], and 1 by an off-duty police officer);
- 3 shooters committed suicide at the scene (1 before police arrived, 2 after); and
- 1 shooter fled and committed suicide at another location.

Middle Schools

The 6 MS incidents resulted in 2 killed (2 school employees) and 6 wounded. The 5 MS shooters, who were students at the affected school, ranged in age from 12 to 15; the other shooter was 32. The incidents occurred on Mondays (3), Tuesdays (2) and a Thursday (1).

These incidents ended when:

- 3 shooters were apprehended by police after being restrained by school employees;
- 2 shooters committed suicide at the scene before police arrived; and
- 1 shooter was apprehended by police at the scene.

Elementary Schools

The 4 ES incidents resulted in 29 killed (7 school employees) and 8 wounded (5 school employees). The shooters ranged in age from 20 to 48. None of the shooters worked at the schools, though 1 was a former teacher and 1 had a relationship with an individual at 1 of the schools. The shootings occurred on Fridays (2), a Wednesday (1), and a Thursday (1).

These incidents ended when:

- 3 shooters were apprehended at the scene (1 after being restrained by citizens); and
- 1 shooter committed suicide at the scene after police arrived.

Pre-K Through 12th Grade School

A single incident occurred at a PreK-12 school resulting in 5 killed and 5 wounded. The incident, which occurred on a Monday, involved a 32-year-old shooter who committed suicide while law enforcement was on the scene.

In all but 2 of the 160 incidents, the shooters chose to act alone.

OPEN SPACES

The 15 incidents that occurred in open spaces resulted in 45 people killed, including 1 law enforcement officer, and 54 people wounded (including 10 law enforcement officers). The shooters ranged in age from 17 to 72. Only 1 incident had 2 shooters. Most incidents occurred on Fridays (6) with the rest occurring on Saturdays (3), Sundays (3), Tuesdays (2), and a Monday (1). In all, 4 shooters committed suicide (2 at the scene and 2 at another location). Police killed 4 shooters (3 at the scene and 1 at another location) and apprehended 7 shooters (4 at another location, 2 at the scene, and 1 after the shooter was restrained by a citizen). In the 15 incidents, 11 of the shooters were in vehicles during a portion of the incident.

MILITARY AND OTHER GOVERNMENT PROPERTIES

The 11 incidents that occurred on non-military government properties resulted in 24 killed (including 3 law enforcement officers) and 14 wounded (including 4 law enforcement officers). The ages of the shooters, 1 of whom was female, ranged from 23 to 88. One unknown shooter remains at large. Most incidents occurred on Mondays (3) and Wednesdays (3) with the rest occurring on Thursdays (2), a Tuesday (1), a Friday (1), and a Saturday (1). In all, 4 shooters were killed by police at the scene, 1 shooter was killed by an airport security guard, 3 shooters were apprehended by police at the scene (1 after the shooter was restrained by a citizen), 2 shooters committed suicide at the scene (1 before and 1 after police arrived), and 1 shooter fled and is still at large.

The 5 incidents that occurred on military property resulted in 27 killed and 43 wounded (including 5 law enforcement officers). The shooters ranged in age from 23 to 63. Most incidents occurred on Mondays (3) with the rest occurring on Thursdays (2). In all, police killed 3 shooters at the scene and apprehended 2 shooters at the scene. Two shooters had prior military service, 2 shooters had no military experience, and 1 shooter was an active duty member of the military.

RESIDENCES

The 7 incidents that occurred solely at a residence resulted in 32 people killed (including 1 law enforcement officer) and 17 wounded. The ages of the shooters ranged from 20 to 55, excluding 2 additional unidentified shooters who remain at large. Most incidents occurred on Sundays (3) and Saturdays (2), with the rest occurring on a Thursday (1) and a Friday (1). In all, 3 shooters were killed by police, 2 committed suicide after police arrived, and 2 were apprehended. One incident involved 3 shooters, and 2 of those shooters remain at large.³²

HOUSES OF WORSHIP

The 6 incidents in houses of worship resulted in 21 people killed and 27 wounded (including 1 law enforcement officer). The ages of the shooters ranged from 24 to 69. Most incidents occurred on Sundays (3), with the rest occurring on a Tuesday (1), a Friday (1), and a Saturday (1). In all, 3 shooters were apprehended (2 of whom were restrained by citizens until police arrived) and 3 committed suicide at the scene (2 before police arrived and 1 after).

HEALTH CARE FACILITIES

The 4 incidents in health care facilities resulted in 10 killed and 10 wounded (including 2 law enforcement officers). The ages of the shooters ranged from 38 to 51. All incidents occurred on different days of the week: a Monday (1), a Tuesday (1), a Saturday (1), and a Sunday (1). In all, 2 shooters committed suicide at the scene (1 before police arrived, and 1 after), 1 was apprehended at the scene, and 1 was killed by police at the scene.

In 9 incidents, the shooter first shot and killed family members in a residence before moving to a more public location to continue shooting.

³² An additional 7 shootings took place at a residence before the shooter moved on to another more public location. In those instances, a shooter killed a close friend or family member before driving to the location where the majority of the casualties occurred. These incidents, therefore, were coded as having occurred within the other locations (e.g. businesses open to pedestrian traffic, schools, houses of worship).

Conclusion

The FBI initiated this study to add to the resources available to law enforcement and others who must consider their best course of action to prepare for, respond to, and recover from active shooter incidents. Using the same criteria over a 14-year span, the FBI sought to determine whether the number of active shooter incidents had changed, concluding the trend over the study period showed a steady rise. In the first half of the years studied, the average annual number of incidents was 6.4, but that average rose in the second half of the study to 16.4, an average of more than one incident per month.

Of the 160 incidents studied, 64 (40.0%) would have met the criteria to fall under the federal statute passed in 2012 which defines mass killing as three or more killed in a single incident. Of the 64, 39 of these mass killings occurred within the final 7 years studied.

Study results also indicate that, of the 11 defined location categories, the majority of incidents—45.6% of the 160—occurred in an environment related to commerce. The second most common incident locations were in educational environments (24.4%), and the study results established that some of these incidents involved some of the highest casualty numbers.

Study results provided added clarity on instances where law enforcement appeared to be most at risk when responding to the scene. For example, though law enforcement responded to a large number of school incidents, no law enforcement officers were killed or wounded when responding to a school incident. However, in 45 of the 160 incidents where law enforcement did engage a shooter, law enforcement suffered casualties in 21 (46.7%) of the incidents, resulting in 9 officers killed and 28 wounded.

Significantly, 10 of the officers were wounded in gunfights categorized as occurring in open spaces where the shooters were moving through streets and between buildings. In addition, 3 of the officers were wounded on military property, and another 3 were killed and 9 wounded in gunfights on other government properties. Based on these study results, therefore, the FBI will no longer use the term “confined” as part of the “active shooter” definition.

Though this study did not focus on the motivation of the shooters, the study did identify some shooter characteristics. In all but 2 of the incidents, the shooter chose to act alone. Only 6 female shooters were identified. Shooter ages as a whole showed no pattern. However, some patterns were seen in incident sub-groups. For example, 12 of 14 shooters in high school shootings were students at the schools, and 5 of the 6 shooters at middle schools were students at the schools.

In addition, research results identified some location categories where victim targets were more readily identifiable, in part because of the shooters’ connections to the locations. For example, in businesses generally closed to pedestrian traffic, 22 of the 23 shooters were employees or former employees of the involved company. In other instances, the location category appeared less significant than the victims targeted. For example, in 15 (9.3%) of the 160 incidents, the shooter targeted family members. And in 15 (9.3%) of the 160 incidents, the shooter targeted his current, estranged, or former spouse or his current or former girlfriend.

Unclassified

This study helps clarify the environment with regard to both the level of risk citizens face and the speed with which active shooter incidents occur. A majority of the 160 incidents (90 [56.3%]) ended on the shooter's initiative before the police arrived—sometimes when the shooter committed suicide or stopped shooting, and other times when the shooter fled the scene. In 64 incidents where the duration of the incident could be ascertained, 44 (69.0%) of 64 incidents ended in 5 minutes or less, with 23 ending in 2 minutes or less.

The study identified 21 (13.1%) of 160 incidents where unarmed citizens made the selfless and deeply personal choices to face the danger of an active shooter. In those instances, the citizens safely and successfully disrupted the shootings. In 11 of those 21 incidents, unarmed principals, teachers, other school staff and students confronted the shooters to end the threat. In 10 incidents, citizens, working or shopping when the shootings began, successfully restrained shooters until police could arrive. And in 6 other incidents, armed off-duty police officers, citizens, and security guards risked their lives to successfully end the threat. These actions likely saved the lives of students and others present.

Recognizing the increased active shooter threat and the swiftness with which active shooter incidents unfold, these study results support the importance of training and exercises—not only for law enforcement but also for citizens. It is important, too, that training and exercises include not only an understanding of the threats faced but also the risks and options available in active shooter incidents.

Finally, the FBI recognizes that seeking to avoid these tragedies is clearly the best result. The FBI remains dedicated to supporting prevention efforts within all communities affected by these tragedies. As the FBI continues to study the active shooter phenomenon, the Bureau remains committed to assist state, local, tribal, and campus law enforcement in developing better prevention, response, and recovery practices involving active shooter incidents.

Appendix B:

METHODOLOGY

The agreed upon definition of an active shooter by U.S. government agencies—including the White House, U.S. Department of Justice/FBI, U.S. Department of Education, and U.S. Department of Homeland Security/Federal Emergency Management Agency—is “an individual actively engaged in killing or attempting to kill people in a confined and populated area.”³³ The FBI extends this definition to include individuals, because more than one shooter could be involved in some incidents. Implicit in the definition is that the subject’s criminal actions undertaken include the use of a firearm. Though the federal definition includes the word confined, the FBI excluded this word when considering active shooter incidents. This is because the term confined could be interpreted to omit incidents that occurred outside a building, when in actuality, many incidents originated outside or progressed from indoors to outdoors, or vice-versa, or occurred entirely along a route of travel or at various locations.

The FBI developed discriminating factors to further differentiate potential active shooter incidents, considering for inclusion:

- Shootings in public places;
- Shootings occurring at more than one location;
- Shootings where the shooters’ actions did not appear to be another criminal act;
- Shootings resulting in a mass killing;
- Shootings indicating an apparent spontaneity by the shooter;
- Shootings where the shooters appeared to methodically search for potential victims; or
- Shootings that appeared focused on injury to people, not buildings or objects.

Because the risk to civilians in active shooter incidents appears to do with the apparent randomness of so many victims, for purposes of this study, an event was excluded if research established it involved primarily the following factors:

- Conflicts arising from self-defense;
- Gang violence;
- Contained residential or domestic disputes;
- Controlled barricade/hostage situations;
- Crossfire as a byproduct of another ongoing criminal act; or
- Drug violence.

To evaluate appropriate incidents to include and exclude, the FBI reviewed published studies and research articles on actual shooting incidents or related research conducted by other government agencies, appointed gubernatorial panels, local advisory commissions, and other public and private entities.³⁴ Using the federal definition of active shooter and the general list of exclusionary and inclusionary factors, the FBI identified shooting incidents that occurred during the 2000 to 2013 time span that might fit into this study. This set of incidents was gathered from FBI data as well as other previously published lists of shooting incidents, including a comprehensive list of incidents developed by the New York Police Department³⁵ and one of the most comprehensive studies of shooting incidents in the United States to date—a study from 2000 to 2010 conducted by researchers from Texas State University (TXST) and its Advanced Law Enforcement Rapid Response Training (ALERRT) Center.³⁶ The FBI collected further data from law enforcement reports and internal and open source information.³⁷ A panel representing local law enforcement, the FBI, and TXST then used a deliberative process³⁸ to identify the 160 active shooter incidents for this study. Researchers from TXST were consulted extensively throughout this analytical effort.

Appendix C:

INCIDENT LOCATIONS

The FBI identified 11 incident location categories, seeking to identify the primary location where the public was most at risk during an incident. For example, in 9 incidents, casualties occurred inside a private residence before a shooter moved to a more public area. In those incidents, the public area was identified as the primary location. In addition, some specialized business locations (i.e., malls and health care facilities) were separately identified.

DEFINITIONS OF LOCATION CATEGORIES:

Malls—Types of businesses typically consisting of more than one anchor store and many smaller businesses under a single roof, though they may include some open spaces. Strip malls, which typically provide no indoor open spaces and are often arranged in a single row, are included in the business category.

Businesses Open to Pedestrian Traffic—Private properties with the primary function of making, buying, or selling goods or providing services in exchange for money where pedestrian traffic is anticipated on a daily basis. Examples include restaurants, bars, law firms, theaters, grocery stores, private civic organization spaces, and event venues. This category does not include locations otherwise defined more exclusively in another category, such as malls or health care facilities, and institutions of higher education.

Businesses Closed to Pedestrian Traffic—Private properties primarily functioning in commerce without daily pedestrian traffic. Examples include manufacturing centers, packaging and distribution facilities and factories, warehouses, assembly plants, and commercial vehicle maintenance, storage, and repair facilities.

Schools—Public and private properties used for educating students from pre-kindergarten to 12th grade, as well as school administrative functions such as board and staff meetings.

Institutions of Higher Education—Public or private properties used for post-high school studies.

Other (Non-Military) Government Properties—Public properties owned by local, state, federal, or tribal governmental entities. Examples include courthouses, administrative buildings, and town halls. This category does not include locations otherwise defined more exclusively in another category such as military property or schools.

Open Spaces—Public or private properties openly accessible to the public. Incidents are categorized as occurring in open space if they take place primarily in an open air location rather than beginning or ending inside a building. Examples include incidents where the shooter is inside a moving car and incidents where the shooter acts while walking or running through public streets, open parking lots, or parks.

Military Properties—Public properties owned by the U.S. government and primarily reserved for the use of the U.S. military. Examples include military bases, airfields, sea ports, and training ranges.

Unclassified

Health Care Facilities—Public or private facilities that provide primary or secondary health services. Examples include hospitals, clinics, and urgent care, hospice care, and retirement facilities.

Houses of Worship—Public or private facilities used for religiously-sponsored activities at the time of an incident. This includes commercial properties used as houses of worship at the time of the incident. Examples include churches, temples, synagogues, mosques, and related religious gathering and retreat facilities.

Residences—Public or private single or multi-family places of residence.

Rescue Vehicle Policy

PURPOSE AND SCOPE

The purpose of this policy is to provide direction for the usage, training, and storage of the regional MedEvac rescue vehicle.

USE OF THE MEDEVAC

The use of the MedEvac will be authorized by the field supervisor and/or the on-duty Watch Commander. The use of the MedEvac will only be for supervisory approved purposes including, but not limited to, calls for service involving potentially armed subjects, Tactical Team callouts, search warrants, officer or citizen rescues, or authorized training. The vehicle's purpose is to provide an armored rescue resource for officers to use when managing critical incidents where there is an objective risk to the safety of civilians and/or officers from a person who may be considered armed and dangerous.

The MedEvac vehicle shall not be deployed during non-violent demonstrations, including for crowd control and crowd management, unless there are objective facts demonstrating a risk of injury or death to police officers and/or the public. The MedEvac vehicle may be staged at pre-designated locations away from protest sites to allow for timely response. The vehicle may be used in cases of a declared unlawful assembly, and after a lawful dispersal order, where persons are engaged in criminal behavior that presents an objective risk of injury or death.

MEDEVAC OPERATION TRAINING

Periodic briefings and training will be conducted on the operation and deployment of the MedEvac. A valid class "C" California driver's license is required to drive the MedEvac. Supervisors shall submit training validation forms to document that staff members have received training.

MEDEVAC DEPLOYMENT CONSIDERATIONS

Staff has the discretion to deploy the rescue vehicle in those circumstances where there is an objective risk of injury or death to civilians and officers and use of the vehicle may reduce or resolve said risks by facilitating safe police management of the critical situation and rescue of injured persons. Staff should:

- Assess the situation and based on the objective facts determine that the discretionary use of the rescue vehicle may contribute to the safe resolution of a critical incident where there is a risk of injury or death to civilians or officers.
- Given proper authorization for deployment of the vehicle, staff should, whenever practical, create an operational plan for deployment of the vehicle consistent with this policy, current law and the department's Use of Force policy
- The vehicle may be used to locate and contain a threat by providing cover for officers, facilitating a rescue of an injured person or as a tactical resource to allow officers to take into custody a person who presents an objective risk of injury or death to civilians or officers.

In selecting the rescue team, the supervisor should consider experienced personnel, such as Tactical Team Operators and/or former Tactical Team members, Hostage Negotiators and officers who have received Crisis Intervention Training (CIT). In addition, the rescue team should include a Medic or TEMS officer (Tactical Emergency Medicine Support), rescue carriers, cover officers along with officers equipped with less lethal force equipment.

Fire and ambulance personnel should be ready to accept injured persons at the termination point of the rescue.

USE OF THE MEDEVAC BY OUTSIDE AGENCIES

The on-duty supervisor shall approve the use of the MedEvac by outside agencies for emergency purposes. If time allows, at least one on-duty Tactical Team officer shall deploy with the MedEvac, to assist outside agency requests. This may include additional officers who have received training in advanced first aid. The use of the MedEvac by outside agencies for purposes other than emergencies shall be authorized by the Tactical Operations Commander or on call Captain.

MEDEVAC STORAGE

The MedEvac is a Regional asset. It will be stored primarily at the San Leandro Police Department, or another area designated by the City. If the vehicle is in use and stored by one of the grant partners, the vehicle should be kept in a secured area, when possible.

MEDEVAC MAINTENANCE

Maintenance of the MedEvac is the responsibility of the Tactical Operations Commander. Officers from the Tactical Operations Team will routinely check the MedEvac and its equipment, including but not limited to ensuring the battery is charged, the trickle charger is attached, the engine will turn over, and that the vehicle is in general working order. When reasonable, the vehicle should be fueled after each use.
